

CONDENSED NEWS.

A committee of citizens of Washington held an interview in the jail with a pair of convicted thieves, who related the circumstances of many robberies, including that of ex-Minister Christian's diamonds, and stated the amounts paid the detectives for protection. It appears that the entire detective force of the District has received weekly dividends from the monte and trunk men.

The company which was formed last spring in England and Canada, with a capital of $15,000,000, under the control of the duke of Manchester and three other noblemen, to purchase five million acres of land from the Canadian Pacific road, bids fair to collapse. Its shares of sixty shillings have fallen in the Canadian market to forty-five shillings, and an installment of twenty shillings has been called for February 1st.

Montreal has suffered an irreparable loss by the death of Sir Hugh Allan. He came there from Scotland when 14 years of age, and acquired a fortune estimated at $15,000,000. He was president of one of the largest Canadian banks and of twenty-two other corporations, and gave each his personal attention. He was engaged to be married to a lady in Quebec as his second wife. He leaves eight daughters and four sons.

Oscar M. Goodwin, formerly cashier of the First National bank of Logansport, Indiana, has been convicted of making false entries, but acquitted of embezzlement. The jury rendered a sealed verdict Saturday night, and Goodwin was released on parole to visit his mother and sister. When he learned that he was likely to go to state prison for five years, he went to the jail at Indianapolis for his release, and stated that he had been acquitted, since which time nothing has been seen of him.

A man giving the name of James A. Hamilton has been arrested in Nebraska City and taken to Hastings to answer the charge of abducting Maggie Hennecke from Milwaukee. The father of the missing girl has been deluged with telegrams and letters from amateur detectives in the southwest, but placed no faith in them. The captor of Hamilton claims to be a Chicago detective, and admits that he was an accomplice in the original plot to kidnap the young woman. People in Nebraska think the case is one of mistaken identity.

The indiscretions of Mrs. Langtry seems to be the chief topic of conversation along the Atlantic seaboard. Fred Gebhardt, the wealthy young New Yorker who followed her to Boston, and has been so much in her company, is understood to have been driven away from the theater by Manager Stetson. New York dispatches represent that Gebhardt gave a club dinner in that city Sunday evening but will undoubtedly return to Boston. Mrs. Langtry's sister is said to be on the way from Liverpool, to accompany her during the remainder of her tour. Mrs. Labouche states that she will sail for home next Wednesday, on account of a cablegram from her husband, who had obtained an inkling of the scandal.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

The house committee on education has decided to report favorably a bill appropriating $10,000,000 annually, for five years, to aid the public schools.

The commissioner of railroads reports that at the end of June the United States Pacific company owed the government $93,620,770, and that the Central Pacific was indebted to the amount of $22,140,917.

A citizen of Nebraska purchased from the government a section of land within the limits of the grant to the Burlington and Missouri River road, and received his patent. The railway had previously filed at Washington a map of its location, which the supreme court holds was all that was necessary, and a man who purchased the same section from the railroad company is held to be the rightful owner.

Among the nominations sent to the senate Wednesday were those of J. C. Bancroft Davis to be judge of the court of claims; Rev. Charles C. Pierce, of Illinois, to be chaplain of the 9th cavalry, and Charles H. Chamberlain to be receiver of public moneys at San Francisco. It is rumored that the president will be asked to state the causes for the removal of Marshal Henry.

Rumors are floating about Washington that within sixty days Secretary Lincoln will be appointed minister to England. Gen. Hartmann has been made secretary of war, and Attorney General Brewster has given Justice Bradley's seat on the supreme bench. A stalwart republican from the west has been selected for attorney general. The presence of Simon Cameron at the national capital has given rise to these predictions, as he is planning to recover Pennsylvania from the democrats.

POSTAL STATISTICS.

Mr. Bingham, in a report to the house urging the reduction of letter postage to two cents, gives statistics as far back as 1792, when the rate for carrying a letter was six cents for a distance of 30 miles, and 25 cents for 450 miles. There is also a careful estimate based on the history of the reduction in the past, which sustains the theory of the report, that the stimulus to letter-writing which would naturally be caused by the reduction, would greatly lessen the estimated loss the first year, which (not counting such an increase of letters) would only reach $8,000,000. The entire loss, the report assumes, could be met by a fair allowance for cost of the mail matter of the government. It is also estimated that should the reduction not take effect until Jan. 1, 1884, as provided in the amended Anderson bill, the surplus of the first half of that financial year would balance the loss of the last half, and there would be ample time to exhaust or call in the printed supply of government stamped three-cent envelopes. The surplus of the postoffice department in 1882 will be fully doubled, it is believed, in 1883. It is suggested that when the loss experienced by this reduction shall be fully made up, and when there shall again be a surplus, reduction of postage on drop letters should be made.

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.
The first meeting of the house committee on commerce was a mournful affair. In fact it was a sort of indignation meeting, at which the members expressed themselves pretty freely about the abuse their river and harbor bill had received on the stump and by the press and its overwhelming condemnation at the polls. The members talked over the situation and pondered what they should do about it. Among their grievances was the slight put upon them by the administration in neglecting to send to congress the usual estimates of what moneys will be necessary to carry on works of internal improvement during the next fiscal year. Some, if not all, regarded this as a studied effort to prevent the committee from preparing a river and harbor bill this session, so they resolved to call upon the secretary of war to forward the estimate as required by the statutes, and that they would decide for themselves after they got the estimates whether they should prepare another of their omnibus bills. The formal resolution agreed upon simply calls for the annual estimates required by law. This resolution will be reported to the house at the proper time, and then there may be a lively opening of the discussion as to whether a river and harbor bill shall be framed this session.

CIVIL-SERVICE REFORM.

Dorman B. Eaton and Orlando B. Potter.

of the civil-service reform association, see here in the interest of the Pendleton bill. They are decidedly in favor of this bill as against all its competitors. The Kasson bill strikes them as an ingenious attempt to get out of the bill. The limitation of the period for which a clerk is to be appointed is at variance with the principles of reform. The effort to introduce the new system all over the country at once is undertaken too soon and is liable to fail. The provisions about removals are unnecessary, because if political henchmen and personal favorites can not be appointed there will be no removals except for what everyone would recognize as good cause. Nobody is removed except to some other place. The beauty of the Pendleton bill, according to these gentlemen, is that it is perfectly simple. It undertakes to inaugurate the reform to begin with only a few of the principal offices, and it is not encumbered with provisions about removals and the cause for which persons may be removed and the way in which it is to be done. Furthermore, the Kasson bill proposes to work through the independent commissions all over the country, which is impracticable. The work must be under the general management of one commission. Under all circumstances, these gentlemen think the passage of the Kasson bill would indefinitely postpone any real reform of the service. The fixing of any period of time at the end of which the appointment shall expire, is inconsistent with the theory of a tenure of good behavior, while the term of six years in Mr. Kasson's original bill is objectionable, the reduction of that to four by the committee is even more objectionable.

PENSIONS.

The report of the commissioner of pensions for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1882, issued. Commissioner Lusk says: The bounty laws should be generally remodeled and simplified. Congress should give thoughtful consideration to the entire regrading of pensions, making disability, rather than rank, the measure of pension; the officers and men having been drawn from and returned to the same walks of civil life. There are now 117 different grades of pensioners. It is proposed to give the officer the benefit of his actual rank, and of simple justice. It is recommended, also, in order to place all war claims nearly upon the same footing, that the limitation in section 4,713 be removed, so that cases barred by the three-year limitation shall have their date of the commencement of the time for filing the application, rather than that of the filing of the last piece of evidence. Widows and invalid soldiers of the regular army and navy, whose rights accrued since June 30, 1880, should be allowed reasonable time to file their applications, and pensions should date from the commencement of the accruing of the right, instead of as now, from the date of filing the application. A yearly salary of $5,000 is recommended for pension agents. Speaking of the pension population, the commissioner expresses regret that no provision was made in the tenth census for its enumeration. The best approximation that can be made shows that there is a surviving soldier population of little over 1,000,000, out of which claims for pensions in future may be made by those who incurred pensionable disabilities.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.
Dec. 7.—Seven members presented petitions for an increase of pensions to armed and one-legged soldiers. Mr. Vest offered a resolution, which was adopted, directing the secretary of war to furnish copies of any contracts for a lease of Yellowstone park to a private company. Mr. Beck called up his resolution in reference to political assessments during the late campaign, and Mr. Hale offered a substitute calling for an investigation into levies upon liquor-dealers by the democratic congressional committee. After making some amendments to the bankruptcy bill, the senate adjourned.

Dec. 8.—Several petitions were presented asking action on the tobacco tax and urging the passage of a bill to increase the number of soldiers who have suffered the loss of an arm or leg. A bill was passed to establish title to the site of the military post at El Paso. There was prolonged debate on the resolution as to political assessments on the bankruptcy bill. An attempt to strike from the bill all provision for involuntary bankruptcy was defeated, but Mr. Morgan secured an amendment to include option trading in stocks, grain, etc., in acts of bankruptcy.

Dec. 9.—Petitions from tobacco-dealers were presented for a rebate equal to any reduction that may be made in the tax. Mr. Pendleton gave notice that after the bankruptcy bill was disposed of he would move to take up the civil-service bill. Mr. Vance secured the passage of a resolution directing the secretary of the treasury to furnish a detailed statement of the cost of collecting internal revenue in each district. Mr. Hawley introduced a bill to prevent officers of the United States from collecting subscriptions or assessments from each other. A brief executive session was held.

Dec. 11.—Mr. Slater introduced a bill to forfeit the unearned lands of the Oregon Central road. Mr. Ferry presented a measure to increase the pensions of soldiers and sailors who lost an arm or a leg in the service. Mr. Van Wyck offered a resolution of inquiry whether a railroad is being constructed across the Niobrara military reservation without authority from congress. By a vote of 34 to 20 the senate refused to postpone indefinitely the subject of bankruptcy, and then adopted the Lowell bill as a substitute for the one reported by the judiciary committee. A motion to take up Mr. Pendleton's civil-service bill was carried; but the senate dismissed and defeated a scheme to release the Memphis and Little Rock road from its obligations to carry passengers free and mails at a reduced rate, and then adjourned.

Dec. 12.—On motion of Mr. Hoar, the postmaster general and the secretary of the treasury were directed to transmit reports made on the administration of the federal offices in New York. A memorial of the Chicago board of trade in favor of the Lowell bankruptcy bill was submitted. Bills were introduced to grant a pension to the widow of General Rovers; to pay certain Indian war bonuses of Colorado, and to prohibit officers and members of the United States from contributing money for political purposes. Mr. Vest offered a resolution instructing the committee on territories to report what legislation is necessary to protect public property, preserve the game, and enforce the laws in Yellowstone park. Mr. Pendleton explained the provisions of his civil-service bill, and an extended debate took place. Numerous amendments were offered, but no definite action was taken.

Dec. 13.—The senate was again flooded by petitions to fix the tax on tobacco and to increase the pensions of soldiers who lost an arm or a leg in the war. Mr. Ingalls introduced a bill to compel the prosecution of proceedings in bankruptcy to final decree. The resolution offered by Mr. Beck and Mr. Hale to investigate political assessments were referred to the judiciary committee. Mr. Pendleton's civil-service reform bill was taken up. Mr. Logan secured an amendment providing that examinations shall be practical in their character, and Mr. Sherman caused the defeat of the permanent appropriation for the expenses of a civil-service commission. Mr. Garland introduced a bill to grant a right of way through the military reservation at Fort Scott for the St. Louis and San Francisco road.

HOUSE.

Dec. 7.—The house passed a joint resolution to print 20,000 copies of the report of the tariff commission. Mr. Upson introduced a bill to rectify the title of the United States to the site of the fort at El Paso, Texas. The house then went into committee of the whole on the Indian appropriation bill, which sets aside $5,300,000, and after some amendments the measure was passed. A bill authorizing the government to establish at Erie a house for indigent soldiers and sailors was defeated.

Dec. 8.—Mr. Davis presented a petition from tobacco manufacturers of Chicago, asking immediate action on the question of taxation. Mr. Burrows reported the consular appropriation, which sets aside $1,253,333. In committee of the whole, the bill for the relief of the officers and men of the monitor which fought the Merrimack was defeated. Mr. Bingham reported a bill to reduce letter postage to two cents. An adjournment to Saturday was taken.

Dec. 9.—Mr. Page reported a resolution calling on the secretary of war for information whether the funds aside for the river and harbor bill were appropriated for works not of interest to commerce or navigation, and if so, requesting that specifications be furnished. An exciting debate followed, in which Mr. Logan and Robinson supported the resolution and Cox and Kasson opposed it, but it was adopted. Mr. Kasson reported a bill to improve the civil service. A bill was passed to rectify the title to the military post at El Paso. Mr. McCord introduced a bill to regulate interstate commerce.

Dec. 11.—Mr. Townsend, of Illinois, introduced a resolution rectifying the efforts of certain railway managers to prevent the construction of competing lines in the northwest, and direct the committee on commerce to report a bill to prohibit and punish such combination. Mr. Waite introduced a bill to stop the coinage of silver dollars until the stock is reduced to $50,000,000, and Mr. Ellis offered a measure to amend the state of Louisiana to establish quarantine stations. Mr. Dibble presented an act to abolish internal revenue taxes and allow a rebate on whisky and tobacco, and another to reduce the specie in the treasury to $150,000,000. Mr. Springer proposed a constitutional amendment relative to the election of president, vice president, and members of congress. A bill was passed to authorize brevet commissions for distinguished conduct in Indian campaigns.

Dec. 12.—The postoffice, military, and agricultural appropriation bills were reported and referred to the committee of the whole. Mr. Randall offered a resolution requesting the president to furnish a complete statement of the expenditure for improvement of rivers and harbors since the beginning of the government. The congressional library bill was not taken up. It was agreed that the building shall not be erected on land belonging to the government.

Dec. 13.—The house on motion of Mr. Springer, passed a joint resolution authorizing the payment of $25,000 from the Virginia indemnity fund to Mrs. Eliza Dunn, of Chicago, the mother of General W. A. C. Ryan, who was slaughtered in Cuba. The congressional library bill was recommitted, with instructions that it be changed to provide for the erection of a building on government ground in Washington. The military academy appropriation bill was passed. A resolution offered by Mr. Randall was adopted, requesting the secretary of the treasury to report the estimated amount paid for ocean freights during the fiscal year 1882, and a petition for relief from tobacco jobbers, asking a rebate equal to the reduction to be made in the tax.
